Construction

For eight years Jonathan was head of the Commercial Insurance Litigation department at the leading insurance firm, Keoghs. Whilst there he was responsible for a caseload of high value insurance litigation including TCC claims and other claims involving property damage and construction professionals, including claims for professional negligence involving construction professionals. From 2005 he was recognised as a leading practitioner in the field by both The Legal 500 and Chambers and Partners.

Jonathan accepts instructions on a wide variety of constructions disputes and regularly appears in the TCC. He has particular experience in disputes involving allegations of professional negligence against architects, engineers, and surveyors.

Construction Cases

Selected Cases

- Representing the Defendant contractor in a large claim arising out of the building of large scale farm buildings.
- Representing home owners in various actions to secure redress against builders.
- Representing an architect in TCC proceedings in a very significant claim for professional negligence involving renovation of a listed building
- Representing a structural steel designer and installer following failures at 2 separate sites, advice included advice on insurance policy coverage and potential professional negligence claim against insurance brokers.

Beyond the Bar

Outside work, Jonathan's time is spent having fun with his family and walking his dog. When time allows he enjoys playing tennis and golf and otherwise socialising with friends and going to concerts.
