Professional Negligence

Simon has a substantial experience in a broad range of professional negligence disputes relating to:

- Solicitors' – commercial disputes, land disputes and disputes involving the mishandling of personal injury and clinical negligence claims
- Accountants and auditors
- Financial advisers
- Insurance brokers
- Surveyors including negligent surveys and valuations
- Architects
- Medical practitioners including mental health practitioners

He has developed a strong and loyal following among his solicitors who continue to instruct him in a broad range of high value work. He is comfortable working for both claimants and defendants and the current split of his work is 60/40 in favour of claimant work. He is recognised for his calm approach, his ability to distill the issues in a case, and for his attention to detail. The breadth of his commercial practice gives him the ability to analyse a case from many angles. Simon likes to think that he is approachable and is happy to discuss cases if it is thought that he could of be assistance.
